EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Judge J. T. Hanbery.

The melancholy end of the brilliant career of "Jack" Hanbery is a source of profound and universal sorrow. His friends were legion, not only in his home city and in the party that had honored him with high office, but in all parts of Kentucky and in all parties. A native of Christian county, his success came largely through his own efforts. He surmounted obstacles, overcame difficulties, urged on by a boundless and laudable ambition, always performing his duties with a fearless and conscientious regard for law and justice. Without the best advantages, he accomplished more than most men do with the very best opportunities and made a reputation on the bench that will live after him in years to come. He was learned in the law, with a wonderful fund of legal knowledge representing years of studious application to his books. He was just and impartial in his rulings. He was fearless and faithful in doing his duty as he saw it. He was kind-hearted and thoughtful of the feelings of others and the humblest prisoner felt that he had a friend on the bench who would see that he was fairly treated. His friends believed there were greater things in store for Judge Hanbery, but his useful career is ended in gloom and the grave is open to receive all that was mortal of this upright man and judge.

Hughes' mud-slinging speech of acceptance has attracted such attention to the rotten-egg methods of the Republican nominee in the present campaign that the department of justice, the department of agriculture and the postoffice department have completed plans for a rotten egg campaign in the United States, particularly in the cities. Information reached the department of agriculture, which has charge of the enforcement of the pure food law, that the storage companies were getting rid of an immense number of their veteran eggs through the medium of the parcel post, and investigation was started in conjunction with the department of justice. It developed that the information was accurate and that the storage companies were unloading antiquated and bad eggs through the parcel post, and also through the express companies. From clothes men, armed with ammonia bottles, will doubtless be detailed to watch Republican headquarters to head off these shipments of unlawful campaign material.

It will be necessary for Gov. Stanley to fill the vacancy in the office of Circuit judge as soon as the proprieties have been observed. The fall terms of court are beginning in all of the districts and few of the judges will be available for special duty. The Calloway Court began at Murray yesterday and Gov. Stanley's appointee may be expected to be sent there before the end of the week. Those close to the Governor express the opinion that he will tender the appointment to Judge Chas. H. Bush, of this city.

All of the present Congressmen in Kentucky of both parties who had not already been nominated, were nominated Saturday in the official primaries.

G. P. Thomas, of Cadiz, beat T. N. Hazell, of Paducah, by 1,189 majority, in the republican primary of the First district.

A. J. Kirk won the nomination for judge of the court of appeals in the Seventh district in a field of six republican candidates.

More than 1,000 children have died in New York of infantile paralysis and 5,000 have been stricken. The plague is gaining headway.

The Serbians have already won some successes in their movement to dislodge the Bulgarians in Macedonia.

S. B. Dishman won the Democratic nomination for Congress in the 11th district.

DEATH CLAIMS ABLE JUDGE

Judge J. T. Hanbery Expires After Months of Intense Suffering.

A VICTIM OF CANCER

Recognized as One of the Ablest Circuit Judges in Kentucky.

JUDGE J. T. HANBERY.

After many months of intense suffering from an incurable disease, Judge John T. Hanbery sank into unconsciousness Sunday and during Sunday night he peacefully passed away.

His ill health began something more than two years ago. A small pimple appeared on his face near the left side of his mouth and before it even attracted the attention of his friends he went to the Mayos in Minnesota and came back apparently cured. He continued his duties on the bench and took part in the campaign last year, that resulted in his re-nomination and re-election in November for a second term of six years as circuit judge.

His new term began last January and no recurrence of his old trouble occurred until about the middle of March, when he was taken ill while holding court here. The month before he had made speeches for the good roads proposition and appeared in his usual health.

He did not get over what was supposed to be a slight attack of indisposition and by the latter part of March he went to Evansville for treatment in a sanitarium where it was soon found that cancer in a most malignant form was attacking the glands of his body.

Various operations were performed during the months that followed and his friends and devoted wife hoped against hope that some means might be found to arrest the terrible disease. Its progress was slow but sure and before the first of June he was told that his case was hopeless.

During the month of June his friend, Rev. M. A. Jenkins, who was holding a meeting here, went to Evansville to see him and Judge Hanbery talked calmly and with Christian resignation of his approaching death, saying that while he looked upon his life work as unfinished he was ready to go.

Early in July he expressed an earnest desire to be brought back to his old home here and for several weeks he had been in his room at Miss Fannie Phelps', where he had boarded for many years. Kind and loving friends showed every attention that his condition allowed, but much of the time he had been in a semi-conscious state, patiently waiting for the end. His own prayer was that his sufferings might end and he would ask his friends to pray that the call might come soon. His death was a conspicuous example of the peaceful resignation that comes to the Christian whose faith is bright.

"Jack" Hanbery, as his friends loved to call him, was born in Lafayette, Ky., Oct. 26, 1867, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. C. Hanbery. He was reared in that vicinity and united with the Little River Baptist church in 1880.

Not long afterwards the family came to this city and this had ever since been his home. He was educated in the public schools of the city and in South Kentucky College.

As a boy he worked as shipping clerk in the tobacco warehouse of Buckner & Woodbridge, but his great desire was to be a lawyer and after a few years he went into the office of the late Judge J. I. Landes, where he studied law and eventually was admitted to the bar.

Soon after he began practice he was appointed city attorney and later served a term as city judge of Hopkinsville, filling both of these positions with unusual ability for a young man. His personal popularity also brought him clients and he prospered almost from the beginning of his career as a lawyer, without the usual period of waiting.

In 1897 he aspired to the office of commonwealth's attorney and in a memorable convention at Murray lost the nomination by a fraction of one vote.

He devoted himself to his practice for twelve years and in 1909 ran for circuit judge, defeating Judge Thos. P. Cook for the democratic nomination by 129 votes, in one of the hottest races ever held in the district. As stated above he had no opposition for his second term.

In 1896, Judge Hanbery was married to Miss Nola Rowe, who survives him. He leaves no children. Both of his aged parents died two or three years ago. His nearest relatives are three sisters, Mrs. C. D. White, of Cadiz, and Mrs. Susie Shryer and Mrs. J. T. Savage, of St. Louis.

The first named is in West Virginia and will not be able to attend the funeral. The others were with him when he died. Mrs. Hanbery's mother, brother and sister arrived yesterday from Evansville, Ind.

The funeral services will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the First Baptist church, of which Judge Hanbery was a member. He was teacher in the Fidelity Class of ladies in the Sunday School, a class of 80 or more members.

He also held membership in the Masonic, Elks, Pythian and Woodmen orders.

The services will be conducted by his pastor, Dr. C. M. Thompson. The following will serve as pallbearers:

Active—W. A. Radford, John B. Chilton, T. C. Underwood, Lucian H. Davis, Walter E. Howe and J. E. McPherson.

Honorary—W. T. Fowler, C. H. Rush, James Breathitt, J. W. Downer, Hunter Wood, Sr., John Stites, W. H. Southall, Frank Rives, John T. Edmunds, O. H. Anderson, Joe McCarroll and Denny P. Smith.

Bar Takes Action.

At a meeting of the Hopkinsville Bar held at ten o'clock in the County Court room, Judge Joe McCarroll was elected chairman and John T. Edmunds, secretary. A committee composed of Hunter Wood, Sr., W. T. Fowler, Frank Rives, Herman Southall and Otho H. Anderson were appointed to draft suitable resolutions. Addresses were made by Hunter Wood, Sr., W. T. Fowler, Jas. B. Allensworth, Thomas P. Cook, Walter Knight, J. W. Downer, Hiram Brown and Otho H. Anderson.

The meeting was largely attended and it was unanimously decided that all members of the bar, including all visiting attorneys, and county officials, should meet in front of the court house at 3:45 today and attend the funeral in a body.

Weather For Week

Washington, Aug. 7.—The forecast for the week for the Ohio valley is generally fair and warm, except local thundershowers are probable during latter half of week.

BULL MOOSE STAMPEDE

Coming in Doves and Former Republicans Are Found in the Number.

MOVE STRONG AT COAST

In Washington, Oregon, Idaho and California Entire Vote to Go to Democrats.

New York, Aug. 7.—The drift of progressives to the support of President Wilson has become a stampede since their meeting in Indianapolis last Thursday. Republicans, too, are coming to the president's standard in daily increasing numbers since their candidate failed in his speech of acceptance to create an issue that would appeal to the intelligence of the independent voter.

To National Chairman McCormick and to the president himself come every day letters and telegrams from men who have been prominent in the bull moose party and men who have been up to now dyed in the wool republicans, who pledge their support in this campaign. Chairman McCormick made public today a partial list of republicans and former progressives who have openly declared themselves for President Wilson's re-election.

TIDAL WAVE IN WASHINGTON

In the state of Washington the progressive and republican stampede to Wilson is most pronounced. Women as well as men are included in the list. Some of the more conspicuous names forwarded to national headquarters are Ole Hanson, progressive candidate for United States senator in 1914; Edgar C. Snyder, progressive state chairman; H. C. Piggetto, editor of the Seattle Saturday Night, a progressive weekly; Geo. W. Bright, W. J. Dowling and J. H. Fletcher, who were all on the progressive local tickets in 1914; Henry Albert McLean, progressive candidate for congress; C. J. France, chairman progressive state convention, and many others.

In Idaho the tide has set no less strongly toward Wilson. The Boise Evening Capitol News, the most influential newspaper in that state, has swung from progressive organ to a staunch supporter of the president.

HENEY LEADS IN CALIFORNIA.

The California stampede of the moose, led by Francis J. Heney, progressive candidate for the United States senate, extends to every corner of that state. The Woodrow Wilson progressive league has enrolled thousands of members, and its officers report to national headquarters that the Wilson vote will include practically the entire bull moose vote of four years ago.

Mr. Heney is vice-president of the Wilson league in his state. Some of the other progressive and republican leaders of national prominence who have declared for President Wilson or against Mr. Hughes are: Col. John M. Parker, of Louisiana, progressive candidate for vice-president on the sold out ticket of 1916; Benbridge Colby, of New York, who placed Theodore Roosevelt in nomination in the national progressive conventions of 1912 and 1916; Mathew Hale, of Massachusetts, vice-chairman and acting head of the progressive national committee; J. A. H. Hopkins, progressive state chairman of New Jersey; John J. O'Connell, progressive chairman of New York county, which had the largest enrolled membership of any bull moose organization. Several hundred of this organization have already joined the Young Men's Democratic club of New York. Hugo Wintner, New York attorney and progressive candidate for supreme court in 1912; Michael Schnapp, vice-chairman of New York state progressive committee; W. H. Nichols, of Vermont, member of progressive executive committee; J. C. Parder, editor of Lefex magazine, Philadelphia; Paul T. Mueller, editor and proprietor of the Chicago Abendpost and Chicago go Sonntagpost, the most influential German publications politically in the United States; John L. Sullivan, editor St. Mary's, Ohio, Leader, who withdrew as republican nominee for secretary of state in 1912 to join the progressives; Randolph W. Walton, Columbus, progressive candidate for attorney general in Ohio in 1914; Henry M. Wallace, foremost progressive of Michigan, and John F. Smith, chairman of the Michigan progressive state committee; Clarence Helbert, progressive state chairman of Minnesota; Casper Schenck, Des Moines, progressive candidate for United States senator two years ago; Judge Albert D. Norton, of the Missouri court of appeals; former Congressman John C. Houke, progressive state chairman of Tennessee.

Chairman McCormick will give out more names when there is space for their publication.

SUICIDE OF J. A. DRAPER

Prominent Farmer Found In His Room Yesterday Morning

HIS PISTOL BY HIS SIDE

Senior Member Of Draper Bros. Farmers On Large Scale.

J. Ashton Draper, managing partner of the farming firm of Draper Bros., near Longview, committed suicide at his home yesterday morning at 7:45 o'clock, by a pistol shot fired into his body near the heart.

The firm of Draper Bros., operated the Richard Leavell farm of 500 acres on shares and also rented the big Summers farm of 700 acres adjoining it, making them one of the most extensive farm operators in the county. W. H. Draper, the junior member of the firm lives in this city and is a member of the insurance firm of Locker & Draper.

J. A. Draper was 58 years of age and unmarried. He lived alone and was in his room on a cot when found dead about ten minutes after the tragedy by Richard Leavell, who arrived about 8 o'clock. There was no one on the place except colored people who lived in cabins near by. They did not hear the shot, but the pistol by his side left no doubt of the manner of his death. He left no explanation, but it is attributed to ill health and general despondency.

The body was brought to the city yesterday morning and taken to the home of W. H. Draper, on Virginia street.

The funeral services will be held at the Christian church this morning at 9:30, by Rev. J. N. Jessup.

Interment at Riverside Cemetery.

NEW LIFE IN DAVIS WAY

Meeting To Be Held Next Monday at Cadiz or Murray.

A meeting is to be held at Cadiz or Murray, on Monday Aug. 14, for the purpose of arousing interest again in the Jefferson Davis Highway and perfecting plans for completing that road from Russellville to Paducah, by way of Elletts and Fairview, which is the birthplace of Jefferson Davis and where a public memorial park has already been considerably improved. R. E. Cooper, President of the Christian County Good Roads Association, is promoting the meeting. A large number of delegations will be present, representing all the cities in this section.

RUSSIA GAINS SOUTH OF BRODY

Newly Organized Army of Germans, However, Has Brought Brussiloff to Stand.

THINK CHECK TEMPORARY

English Report Defeat of the Turks Near Suez Canal With Capture of Prisoners.

Petrograd, Aug. 7.—Russian attacks along the Grabek river south of Brody in northern Galicia, broke the Teutonic resistance and resulted in the capture by the Russians of six villages and the entire ridge along which they are located, according to a war announcement.

More than 3,000 prisoners were taken.

Since the loss of Brody by the Austrians and the successful operations of the Russians against the Germans, which resulted in their gaining the whole of the line along the Stokhod and the capture of several fortified villages considerably west of this river on the direct route to Kovel, the situation on the Russian Gen. Brussiloff's front has remained virtually unaltered.

The Russians by no means have lost control of the initiative, but another wave of most energetic German resistance has set in and the newly organized German army which is composed of all available reserves and fresh recruits, has undertaken the task of changing its tactics from passive resistance to a more active counter-offensive.

The Austrians, concentrating on the fronts to Lodomer, are endeavoring to hold their opponents in the region of the Serech river, a few miles south-west of Brody. The Russians already have scored minor successes in this continuation of the Brody battle, but the strong Austrian defense leaves the outcome in doubt.

Under a merciless concentration of shell fire, the Austrians are holding on to their gains on the west front after their advance on a front of two miles. The Germans already have delivered three powerful counterattacks to retake the last German positions and all have failed.

Their last previous attack having been by the right flank. The British renewed the offensive by the left flank after a week of bombing and sapping. Here the task fell to the Australians who added another victory to their brilliant record by the taking of Pozieres. With this additional front British now hold five miles of the former German second line.

DETAILS FOR ROAD WORK

Final Arrangements For Improvements, Completed at Frankfort.

Final details in signing the contracts and bonds for the improvements on the Madisonville, Lafayette, Fairview, Nashville, Clarksville and Princeton roads have been completed by Engineer Charles A. Folsom and Road Commissioner Howard Brane. Montgomery & Perkins, of San Antonio, Tex., have the contracts. The details were completed with the State officials at Frankfort.

The Madisonville and Lafayette roads will be the first to be improved. Grading will begin immediately on the Princeton road. So far as possible the roads will be worked in such a way that passage will not be obstructed. The roads will be up-to-date and modern methods will be used in improving them. The modified contract calls for work amounting to $175,000.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET

For President.
WOODROW WILSON,
of New Jersey.

For Vice President.
THOS. R. MARSHALL, of Indiana.

For Congress
D. H. KINCHELOE, of Hopkins County.

Five Cabinet members and several Senators and Congressmen will speak in Maine next week for the Democratic ticket.

Three Budapest newspapers have been suppressed for criticizing Gen. Von Hindenburg.

Robert Martin, aged 20, is under arrest at Princeton, Ind., charged with stealing 49 Ford's and one automobile in California. Most of the cars were sold to one man.

Germans have executed a British sea captain named Fryatt, for alleged "violations of international law in ramming German submarines," of which Germany says there have been 58 instances.

Detroit was chosen by the supreme lodge, Knights of Pythias, as the convention place in 1918. That city received eighty-three votes while Chicago was given twenty-two and Portland, Maine, seventeen.

President Wilson declined to speak at Winchester Sept. 5. He said his trip to the Lincoln dedication would not be in any way connected with politics. He promised to visit Kentucky later in the campaign.

Five automobile bandits who early Friday afternoon held up the paymaster and armed guards of the Burroughs Adding Machine Company on the streets of Detroit and made away with between $33,000 and $34,000 after shooting and slightly injuring one man, eluded several machine loads of police sent in pursuit and had not been arrested Saturday.

Ralph Mulford and A. H. Patterson, automobile drivers, narrowly escaped a plunge of 2,000 feet from Pike's Peak Friday when the right front wheel of their car flew off while they were making a trial trip over the course of this week's races. The car was making seventy-five miles an hour, it was said, when the accident happened, but did not leave the course after plunging along several hundred feet and crashed into a boulder. Mulford and his companion escaped with slight injuries.

Forty-nine warships, with an aggregate of 562,000 tons, have been lost by the Entente Allies during the war, according to statistics given out by the German Admiralty, the figures being brought up to June 30 last. Of this number, says the statement, the British lost forty vessels with a tonnage of 485,000. The losses of the Teutonic Allies are given in the statement as thirty warships, of 102,000 tons in the aggregate. The British losses are given, comprising eleven battleships, seventeen armored cruisers and twelve cruisers. The merchant ships sunk by the Teutonic allies, according to the statement, number a total of 1,303, with an aggregate tonnage of 2,000,574.

WANTED—A DAUGHTER

By FLORA A. MONTY.

"Wanted—To hire a refined young lady to act as daughter for one week on motor trip to health resort; $75 and expenses. May bring chaperon. Call at Lewis Hotel, Monday."

Ada's interest was aroused. She read it once again, then leaned across the table and handed the paper to her companion, an elderly lady with timid manners. "Read that, Aunt Elida."

"I shall call tomorrow at the place given. That money would give us the means to go to New York to meet father. Once there, I'll confess that I'm a failure and he will take me to his arms again."

At 9:30 Monday morning a determined young lady called at the Lewis hotel and asked for Mr. Kaldin. Upon being ushered into the parlor, she found herself confronting a tall, rather good-looking man, whose appearance was hardly so elderly as she had anticipated.

"Miss Maxwell?" His glance and tone were approving.

"Yes, I saw your advertisement, and offer my services. I have a week to spare, I can bring a chaperon, and would make a good daughter, I think."

"I am sure of it. Will you be seated while I explain what I expect? It is simply this: We will motor from here to Denton, a trip of less than one day. We will stay there for the rest of the week at The Inn. I merely wish it to be understood that people are to believe you to be my daughter."

During the days that followed their arrival at Denton guests at The Inn became greatly interested in the lovely Miss Kaldin and her youthful father. It was remarked that his devotion to her was unusual.

On Sunday morning, after church, they were the center of a group on the veranda. Mrs. Savage, a gushing widow, had been using all her wiles to attract Mr. Kaldin, quite to Ada's disgust. Now she moved close to the girl and stroked her hair, saying meanwhile to the supposed father: "Dear Mr. Kaldin, how lovely your daughter is. It is no wonder you love her so."

"She is indeed!" he responded heartily. "The sweetest girl I know."

"I—er—that is—" He broke off in embarrassment and gazed at the retreating form of Ada, who was stalking indignantly across the porch and into the building.

It was next morning that the two met once more.

"Please forgive me, Ada," he begged, when they reached a place where they might converse unmolested. "I really could say nothing else, you know. People would be shocked if a father denied that he loved his daughter. Besides, it's true."

"True? I fear I do not understand." But her flushed face showed that she did.

"Let me explain. I mean that I love you, I do not want you as a daughter any longer, but I do desire to keep you in the family as my wife. Dare I hope that I can win your love, dear?" he queried anxiously.

Slowly she laid her hand on his. "I think you may. But, Howard," she added, "why did you advertise for a daughter? What is it all about?"

"Just my love of adventure, dear. It was like this, Ada. Some time ago I received a letter from a man who was an old friend of father's. I had not seen him for years, but he made me an offer worth considering. It seems that he had the notion I was married and had a grownup daughter. He said if I would bring my daughter here to meet him, and she appeared to be sensible, he would settle fifty thousand dollars on her. I understand that he has quarreled with his own daughter, who went away from her home to work and be independent, so he has decided to give her portion of his money away so she can never have it. Cowardly thing, I call it."

"What is the name of this terrible ogre, Howard?"

"Gilman."

A light broke over the girl's face, but she demanded, "What had you planned to do with the money after you had deceived him into giving it up?"

"Explain to my daughter how things stood, then hunt up the real neice and give it to her. Do you think it wrong, dear? I'll abandon my plans if you wish, but I do think that fellow needs a shock," he concluded.

"Don't give up! I'll do my part, and will guarantee that Mr. Gilman gets the necessary shock," she exclaimed.

The next day a blustery old gentleman sent up his card to Howard Kaldin, who came down at once to see him.

As Howard entered, he snapped: "Well, sir; well, sir! Where is your daughter? I'll give her the money, but let's get this thing over with."

"One moment, Mr. Gilman," was the courteous response, as Howard stepped back to admit Ada.

"What's that? Your daughter?" shouted the old man in amazement. "Ada, my baby girl, come and forgive your old daddy," he begged tremulously, to the astonishment of Howard, and in another moment the two were in close embrace.

After the first excitement had subsided Ada murmured, "Howard, dear, this is my father. I did not give you my real name. I am the girl who ran away, so I guess we should be satisfied all round. And I think dad will give us that money on our wedding day."

Two Kentuckians.

The managing editor of the New York Evening Post says that when he was asked by a newspaper man to mention the ten best cartoonists in America, he mentioned the following: Cesare, of the New York Sun. Berryman, of the Washington Star. Darling, of the Des Moines Register.

McCutcheon, of the Chicago Tribune.

Bradley, of the Chicago Daily News. Williams, of the Indianapolis News. Briggs, of the New York Tribune. Donaghey, of the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Fox, of the Wheeler Syndicate. Weed, of the Philadelphia Ledger.

The list includes two Kentuckians: Fontaine Fox, of Louisville, and C. K. Berryman, of Versailles. Fox left Louisville because he was refused a raise of $10 a week, which would have made his salary just about enough for a young bachelor to live upon modestly. He is said to be making $15,000 a year nowadays. Berryman, perhaps, never has capitalized his talent to that extent. He has worked for the Washington Star only and has held a Government position. His cartoon work has been his advocacy. Both men are highly creditable Kentucky products, and the calling is proud of them.—State Journal.

WAR! What Is It All About?

HAS the whole world gone stark mad over a very foolish and trivial question? Are swords rattling, cannon rumbling, mailed armor glistening just because Russia wanted to show her love for the little brother—Serbia? Tear aside the curtain of Europe's politics and see the grim and sinister game of chess that is being played. See upon what a slim, yet desperate, excuse the sacred lives of millions are being sacrificed. Read the history of the past one hundred years, as written by some of the greatest authorities the world has ever known, and learn the naked, shameful truth. Just to get you started as a Review of Reviews subscriber, we make you this extraordinary offer. We will give to you

FREE—"Europe at War"

A big book and over 300 pages, size 10 x 7 inches, handsomely and durably bound in cloth, containing the dramatic history of the great events leading up to the present time; over 50 important and timely special articles by experts on the different phases of the conflict; hundreds of graphic pictures, portraits, photographs, diagrams, specially drawn war maps, illuminating statistical records, copies of official documents and diplomatic messages exchanged between the powers—a clear, vivid, accurate, permanent, interesting and valuable record—a record which once seen you will not willingly be without. Europe's past and present are here dramatically pictured and presented. Hundreds of illustrations graphically tell their own stories. More fascinating than any romance, here is a history so vivid, so dramatic, so stirring, so fascinating, so realistic, so wonderfully presented, so thrillingly told that it leaves an ineffaceable impression.

Your War News Clarified

It is not enough to read the daily news reports. Your ability to comprehend conditions and to discuss them rationally depends on a true interpretation of the meaning and the "reason why" of events. In your mind you must bring order out of chaos and the "Review of Reviews" will do it for you.

Why People Go To Church

"Some go to church because forsooth it was a habit formed in youth.

"Some go because they like to hear the preacher rake their neighbors dear.

"Some go to show their drets, and stare.

At what the other people wear.

"Some go because they are afraid to not do so might injure trade.

"Some because they think it squares the week day shady sin affairs.

"Some go to take a quiet snooze while sitting in the restful peas.

"Lulled by a soporific talk as gentle as a cradle's rock.

"Some go, but under protest, who have wives that compel them to.

"Some go because they really fear the temperature beyond the bier.

"Imagine that the Church's brand will pass them on to promised Land.

"Some young men go, because the fair

Young girls they're sweet on will be there.

"Some go they really do not know just why, they simply dress and go.

"And yet among the chaff we find much golden grain and humankind.

"Good Christian men and women who to holy things are ever true.

"Bright flowers that spring from sinful sod

Who really go to worship God.

"But oh, the millions on this ball of earth who never go at all."

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

The August Woman's Home Companion.

In the August Woman's Home Companion, primarily a fiction number, is the first installment of a story called "Billy Foster and the Snow Queen" by Ka'harine Holland Brown. It gives an unusually interesting description of Mexico City under the de facto regime and forms a striking study of the abilities and the policies of the revolutionists.

For a short story called "The Pick-up," by Sophie Kerr, illustrations have been made by R. M. Crosby, F. Graham Coates, James Montgomery Flagg and Clarence F. Underwood. None of these artists knew that any of the other was to illustrate this story and the four conceptions are printed together. Among the other stories and serials are "The Rising Tide" by Margaret Deland, "On the Road to Youth" by Frederick M. Smith and "The Blue Envelope" by Sophie Kerr.

Among the special articles are "All Kind of Boys and the C.ub Spirit" by Charles Stelzie, and "Ninety-Nine Girls Out of a Hundred," by Katherine Ferguson.

SHADE IS GREAT NECESSITY

Astonishing to Note How Many Farmers Fail to Provide Shelter During Hot Summer Days.

The necessity for providing shades for hogs in summer is overlooked by the majority of farmers throughout the country. It is astonishing to note how many herds of hogs are compelled to stay in the sun and suffer during the summer days. If the herd has access to an orchard or wood lot they will not need artificial shade. However, if they are confined in open lots, they should have sunshades built to protect them. A cheap and efficient shade can be erected in a few hours, and at practically no cost, aside from the labor. A few posts, some old boards or saplings, and a straw or hay roof makes an ideal shade. It is preferable to one of boards, and the straw or hay roof is cooler than one of lumber.

In building sunshades it is better to build them at the highest point in the field, so that the hogs will get the full benefit of every breeze. Few farmers realize the great losses that are due directly to overheating, and such losses can be guarded against only by providing a retreat for the animals during the heat of the day. Days when the weather is extremely hot it is an excellent plan to sprinkle the soil under the shades with water. One barrel of water will help keep down the temperature during the middle of the day.

HACKNEY HORSE IS POPULAR

Breed Originated in England From Crossing Thoroughbred Stallions With Native Mares.

The English Hackney, a typical head of which is pictured herewith, is, perhaps the most popular of all the so-called heavy harness horses. The breed originated in England from crossing thoroughbred stallions on good native driving mares. The term Hackney is derived from hack, originally meaning any horse suitable for drawing carriages and similar vehicles with considerable speed. Speed development beyond a reasonable limit has not been emphasized in this breed, but great attention has been given to action and endurance.

In form this horse is rounder and smoother than the trotting horse, with less tendency to angularity. In height he stands from 14.2 to 15.3 hands. In movement he resembles the French and German coach horses. Knee action is unusually high. In motion, the foot describes a circle.

Hackney and Coach horses are chiefly used as park animals and for driving in boulevards and city streets. The prevalence of the automobile has done a great deal to discourage the production of horses of this type on a large scale in this country. From the farmer's standpoint the Hackney is desirable for driving purposes, but too small for work in the field.—Farm and Home.

TAKE GOOD CARE OF PIGLETS

Necessary That Young Animals Have Plenty of Exercise—Keep Them Out of Cold Rain.

It is very necessary that the little pigs have plenty of exercise and all the sunlight that can be given them. Do not allow the pigs to run out during a cold rain. If possible, provide green feed or roots. These keep the sow healthy and cheapen the ration. Encourage the pigs to eat grain after they are three or four weeks old. Build a creep for them so they can feed alone. At this age feed for bone and muscle. Give them all the skim milk you can. If skim milk is not available, give them some meal and plenty of pasture. In about eight or ten weeks the pigs will have practically weaned themselves. After they have been successfully weaned the most perplexing job is over.

GOOD ROADS STATE MONEY

Kentucky's State Highway Departments Must Submit Plans.

SEN. BECKHAM'S WORK

Kentucky Senator Member of Committee Which Worked Out Plans.

Washington, Aug. 7.—It is now up to Kentucky and the other States of the Union to avail themselves of the financial help afforded through the new good roads law from the United States Treasury, the Secretary of Agriculture, who is authorized to carry out the provisions of the law, having notified each of the Governors that the share of their State is available. Kentucky will receive $97,471.81. Before making the division among the States, the Secretary of Agriculture, as authorized by the law, deducted 3 per cent of the first year's allowance, or $150,000, to be used in administering the law.

Senator J. C. W. Beckham, of Kentucky, as a member of the Senate Committee on Postoffices and Postroads, helped work out the bill which is now law, and it promises to prove one of the most popular and useful pieces of legislation enacted by this Congress. In other words it will aid the city man and the country man alike. It will be of especial value to the farmer, as it tends to aid in bringing to his door improved highways making both for his pleasure and his profit. The fact that the various States, through taxation, will have to pay but one-half of the total sum expended adds to the attractiveness of the proposition.

Senator Beckham, discussing the practical operation of the new road law, said:

"Under the provisions of the act, the Highway department of any State desiring to take advantage of the federal aid provided must furnish the Secretary of Agriculture statements, setting forth the proposed construction of any rural postroad on which is desired federal aid. After the Secretary of Agriculture approves the project, the State highway department furnishes surveys, plans, specifications and estimates. On the approval of these by the Secretary of Agriculture, he notifies the Secretary of the Treasurer and thereupon the latter sets aside the share which the United States is to pay for the improvement."

PROCEEDS WITH WORK.

The State highway department

then proceeds with the construction of the highway under its own supervision in accordance with the plans and specifications approved; and upon the completion of the project the Secretary of Agriculture shall cause to be paid to the State the amount set aside for it."

Harris-Webb.

Mrs. Lydia E. Webb, widow of the late C. B. Webb, for many years a resident of this city, was married at Ada, Oklahoma, June 25, to Capt. Samuel H. Harris, a Confederate veteran. Her former husband died in Ada about seven years ago. The Ada News says:

"The bride has resided in Ada for the past seven or eight years, her husband dying sometime after they moved here. She is a true type of a lady of the Old South, and both of her marriages have been to Confederate veterans. She is a lady of strong character and is highly respected by a large circle of friends in Ada and elsewhere. The groom spent many years in Texas, but when that state had settled up until it was no longer a frontier country, he being a typical pioneer, moved to the Indian Territory and has seen this country developed to its present proportions. He is a Confederate veteran and was one of the organizers of the camp at Ada, also serving two or three terms as commander of the Chickasaw brigade U. C. V. Many years ago he served in the legislature of Texas and is now serving the people of Pontotoc county in a similar capacity. He is the author of the law pensioning the Confederate veterans and their wives residing in Oklahoma."

EVERY YEAR

[By Albert Pike]

Life is a count of losses,
Every year;
For the weak are heavier crosses,
Every year;
Lost Springs with sobs replying,
Unto weary Autumn's sighing,
While those we love are dying,
Every year;
The days have less of gladness,
Every year;
The nights more weight of sadness,
Every year;
Fair Springs no longer charm us,
The winds and weather harm us,
The threats of death alarm us,
Every year;
There come new cares and sorrows,
Every year;
Dark days and darker morrows,
Every year;
The ghosts of dead loves haunt us,
The ghost of changed friends taunt us,
And disappointments daunt us,
Every year;
To the Past go more dead faces,
Every year;
As the loved leave vacant places,
Every year;
Everywhere the sad eyes meet us,
In the evening's dusk they greet us,
And to come to them entreat us,
Every year;
"You are growing old," they tell us,
Every year;
"You can win no new affection,
Deeper sorrow and dejection,"
Every year;
Too true! Life's shores are shifting,
Every year;
And we are seaward drifting,
Every year;
Old places, changing, fret us,
The living more forget us,
There are fewer to regret us,
Every year;
But the truer life draws nigher,
Every year;
And its Morning Star climbs higher,
Every year;
Earth's hold on us grows lighter,
And the heavy burden lighter,
And the Dawn immortal brighter,
Every year.

BURIAL AT PALMA, KY.

Mrs. Minnie Drush, 70 years old, died Friday night in the city of a complication of diseases. She was the widow of the late John Drush, of Paducah. The remains were shipped to Calvert City Sunday and from that place they were taken to old home at Palma, Ky., where the interment took place.

Covered By Big Tobacco Factory.

WORK ALREADY BEGUN
Building Of Kentucky Leaf
And Transit Warehouse Assured.

Contracts for the plant of the Kentucky Leaf & Transit Company which will be erected on the lot occupied now by the old Clay street school, were closed with the Weyman-Bruten Company over long distance telephone by Forbes Manufacturing Company Friday night. The ground for the building was broken Saturday night. Contracts call for the completion of the warehouse by October 25.

The total cost of the plant will be near $60,000. The plant will be used for pricing and rehandling. W. A. Wilson and B. D. Hill had a prominent part in securing the plant for Hopkinsville. The work should be completed in time to handle the 1916 crop.

It will cover an entire block, 250 by 192 feet and will be of brick one story high. The beautiful shaded school lot will have to be cleared of its many handsome shade trees as the first step.

Rifle Range Practice.

Ft. Thomas, Aug. 7.—Postponement of border service is not being allowed to interfere with field training for the Kentucky troops. In addition to the long and hard drills here at the fort, plans are being made now to send the soldiers by regiments to the rifle range, ten miles away, where they will bivouac for periods of two or three days each.

At the bivouac, the men will be thrown on their own resources, just as though they were entering a foreign country. Each man will have his own kit and supplies, his pup tent and eating utensils, and with these he will be left to shift for himself.

About a score more recruits came to camp Thursday from recruiting offices in the state.

Capt. Gipe Disabled.

Captain Samuel E. Gipe, formerly commanding officer of company K, Third Regiment, K. N. G., is ill at his home on the Hartford road. Captain Gipe was recently rejected at the mobilization camp at Fort Thomas as physically unfit, and ordered home. Since his return he has been unable to leave the house and spends his time either in bed or reclining in a Morris chair. Captain Gipe's feet and legs are so badly swollen as to render it painful for him to stand. He is under the care of a physician. —Owensboro Messenger.

Another Change.

The date set for the State Medical Convention, which will be held in Hopkinsville this year, has been changed to October 11-14. This is the third time the date has been changed. The change this time comes because the seventeenth, the date that had been set, conflicted with the meeting of the grand lodge of the Knights of Pythias.

Sell Fine Farm.

Messrs. G. L. Campbell and T. J. McReynolds have sold the Henry Hammack place, near Pembroke, which they bought about a year ago, to W. R. Dorris, of this city, and Lionel L. Duke, of Pembroke. The price has not been made public. The farm contains 460 acres and is one of the finest and best equipped in the county. The new owners will operate it as a stock and grain farm. They expect to stock it with a large herd of cattle.

FERRELL BOYS REUNION.

E. K. Ashby, of the Ashby-Sargeant Co., Evansville, writes that he is coming if possible. Mr. Ashby was one of the orators of the class of 1890.

Clarence Burbridge, of 1882, now in business in Dallas, Texas, writes that he cannot come, much to his regret.

The oratorical renaissance at the Tabernacle next Saturday night will be the crowning event. Many of the boys will make the same speeches they made in 1876.

At the committee meeting Friday final reports were made. Everything is in fine shape. About 200 boys are expected. Both night meetings, one at the Park and the other at the Tabernacle, are free to the public.

A Ferrell button will admit to the Lake grounds Saturday. Only the Ferrell Boys and their hosts will be present on that occasion.

Fills Father's Pulpit

Calvin M. Thompson, Jr., who graduated from Georgetown College this June, occupied his father's pulpit at the First Baptist church Sunday at the morning and evening services. He preached splendid sermons and the congregations that heard him were greatly impressed by his messages. The young man intends to attend college again this year, where he will study theology.

ELKS FOR 1917.

The Hopkinsville Elks and the Hopkinsville Business Men's Association are going after the next state reunion of the Elks in dead, hard earnest. Delegates from each body will go to Paducah the last of this month to present this city's invitation to the annual convention. Exalted Ruler Barnes requests that all Elks who will make the trip give him their names without delay.

Lakin Ducker.

Lakin Ducker, son of Mr. C. W. Ducker, who graduated from the law department of the University of Virginia in June, has accepted a splendid position as private secretary to Judge Charles A. Woods, presiding judge of the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals for the Fourth District. Young Mr. Ducker was an excellent student and is a lawyer of fine promise.

Americans are Brave.

Six members of the American field ambulance were cited in the orders of the days of the French army.

Brooke Leonard Edwards, of Philadelphia, is mentioned as having shown "the greatest courage and coolness in seeking the wounded in the advance." His ambulance was damaged by bursting shells.

James Hilton Sproule, of Gloucester, Mass., is cited for "his remarkable coolness in repairing his motor on the road under violent bombardment and transporting wounded during a period of intense shelling."

Thomas Potter of New York; Everett Jackson of Colorado Springs, Col.; Walter Wheeler of Yonkers, N. Y., and John Clark, of Flushing, N. Y., are each cited separately for the calm intrepidity and devotion with which they carried out their duties under perilous conditions. All the men named are working in the Verdun region under the direction of Herbert Townsend and Henry White.

In the August American Magazine there is an unusual amount of good fiction and a number of special articles and features. Among the short stories are "Zose Bluff" by Sophie Kerr which is another Victor story, "The Nut From Pecan University" by Hugh S. Fullerton, "The Bird Cage" by Marjorie Benton Cooke, "The Weapon That Cut" an interesting story concerning our Japanese problem by Mabel Abbott, "As a Boy Thinks" by Jack Lait, "Your True Friend, Melissa M." by Dana Gatlin, "The Swedish Reporter's Encounter with Sarah Bernhardt" by A. P. Johnson, and a generous installment of the serial "Between Two Worlds" by Philip Curtiss.

Among the special articles is one entitled "38,571 Jobs with a Poor Future" by James Hay, Jr., which deals with work in the government service, and shows its many bad points.

Pure Drinking Water Important. You should be extremely careful that the water you drink is pure. Typhoid germs are particularly likely to harbor in water that stands and to get into water which is in the sluice of some drain. Boiling will kill the germs and the peculiar flat taste which it then has can be easily overcome by shaking it up thoroughly and injecting a dash of carbonated water.

He Was Thankful.

If you would please a mother praise her child; but do it with discretion. A visiting gentleman had submitted for some time to the attentions of the three-year-old boy of his hostess, but at last grew a little tired of having his whiskers pulled and his corns trodden upon. "Madam," said he, "there is one thing about your charming little boy which especially pleases me." "And what is that?" asked the smiling mother. "That he isn't a twin."

POULTRY

KEEP LITTLE CHICKS CLEAN

Cleanliness Must Be Observed Before Youngster Leaves Nest—Use Insect Powder.

Without absolute cleanliness and plenty of sunshine it is impossible to obtain perfect success in raising young chickens. Cleanliness must begin before the young chicken leaves its nest, in fact it should begin with the making of the nest and the placing of the eggs therein.

The nest boxes should be filled about two inches deep with loose earth or sod and new, clean straw should be used for the top filling. Before the hen is allowed to sit on the eggs she should be thoroughly dusted with powder, care being taken that the powder reaches every portion of the body, particularly under the legs and wings. This process should be repeated every ten days, the last dusting to be given just before the chicks are to come out.

As soon as the young chicks appear—before they are two days old—a tiny bit of vaseline should be rubbed with the finger on the head and under each wing. Care must be used not to smear them too much as it will work an injury to the tender chickens.

Young chickens should never be allowed to run in an old yard, that is, one that has not been thoroughly renovated either by growing a crop of grass, oats or rye, or one that has been thoroughly spaded up, raked and rolled down. Of course very few chicken raisers go to this trouble but nevertheless if one is to have perfect success this is absolutely necessary.

If young chickens have been treated as described above and are given the run of a clean yard and the opportunity to get out into the garden and in the grass they will not be troubled with gapes or vermin. When young chicks once become infested with lice it is almost impossible to rid them of the pests. If the large head lice are allowed to get a start on young chickens they will kill them in a very short time.

GOOD TREATMENT FOR COLDS

Equal Parts of Zenoleum and Kerosene Are Recommended—Give Epsom Salts in Mash.

Laborious breathing, wheezing, rattling in the throat, gapping and sneezing, are symptoms of colds in the flock. When birds showing these symptoms are discovered they should be removed from the flock and treated. Use equal parts of zenoleum and kerosene or equal parts of kerosene and sweet oil, immersing the heads of the birds in the mixture or injecting small amounts of it into the nostrils and mouth. Epsom salts should be given in a moist mash also, while the birds are under treatment.

FATTEN FOWLS FOR MARKET

Shut Up Early Hatched Cockrels and Commence Feeding Them Some Fattening Ration.

It is the fattened cockerel that brings the most on the market, and cockerels running on range develop bone and muscle first, so if you have some early hatched cockerels that you plan on marketing, get them shut up early and commence to feed a fattening ration of ground corn and buttermilk or sour milk.

MAXIMUM GROWTH OF GESE

Best Development of Fowls Secured by Feeding in Addition to What They Pick Up.

While it is true that under especially favorable conditions young geese will make fair growth if compelled to forage for their living, they will do much better and be more profitable at the end of the season if they are fed enough so that they can make their maximum growth and secure their best development.

MEN IN MIND IN HOPKINSVILLE

Prominent Factors in The
Busy Life of the Pearl
City.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH NO. 107.

Few Citizens of Hopkinsville
Are Better Known Than
Our Subject of Today.

COL. IKE HART.

In the ancient and historic city of Treve, in Prussia, in the year 1851, there lived a Jewish couple named

Aach and to them was born on April 19th a bouncing baby boy who was named in honor of the patriarch Isaac. He was a restless child and it is recorded that little Isaac before he was a week old could gesticulate with his hands and the habit in time became an accomplishment to such an extent that even to this day he starts a conversation with his hands. We have said that Isaac was a bouncing baby and it was but natural that he should develop into a lusty youth. When 17 years of age a desire to emigrate to that far-away land of liberty beyond the ocean seized upon Isaac and he came to America, landing at Niagara Falls, Canada. There he remained for a year and then came to Cincinnati, Ohio, and dropping the German form of his name it was transformed into the Americanized name of Hart. In 1871 Mr. Hart came to Hopkinsville and was given employment in the general merchandise store of Lipstine & Moayon, pioneer merchants, who are still remembered by their slogan, "Poor old Lip and Honest John." Even at the tender age of 21 years, only four of which had been spent in America, a strange country with stranger customs, Isaac had an eye for business. He had come a long ways to get his job and he made up his mind that he wanted to hold it indefinitely. His plan of campaign was simple but effective. He determined to make himself indispensable in the operation of the business, and incidentally fell in love with the step-daughter of the senior member of the firm. Before two years had elapsed he had a wife and half interest in the business, having bought out the interest of Mr. John Moayon soon after he was married to Miss Carrie Klein. All of this happened about 1874 and our subject's rise was rapid thereafter.

The firm of Lipstine & Hart, ran a general merchandise store, handling everything in the lines of dry goods, clothing, country produce, hides and ginseng. Mr. Hart was the traveling member of the firm, going all over the adjacent territory buying hides and wool and building up a most profitable business, which continued for ten or twelve years. Mr. Hart liked to travel and he conceived the idea that it would be more to his taste to sell the finished product than to buy the raw material. Buying hides was a profitable business but selling shoes made from the hides was equally as profitable and far more agreeable. So in 1886 he quit merchandising and went on the road and there he has been ever since. He made good as a drummer from the very start and has changed his house only once in 30 years. In January 1890 he went with Nathan Plaut & Co., and has been one of the fixtures of their big house for 26 years.

Though he has made but few changes in business, Mr. Hart has made some important ones in other respects. When he first became a naturalized citizen somehow and in some way he fell into the error of voting the Republican ticket but reserving the right and privilege of scratching whenever he felt like it. In making up their polling lists the Republicans usually placed an R. after his name and if he didn't come by two o'clock a runner was sent after him. They don't do that any more. In 1909 when the Republicans made up their state ticket the leading candidate for Lieutenant Governor was Mayor Wm. Heilburn, of Middlesboro, a Jewish merchant of State prominence. Judge O'Rear, who was nominated for Governor, failed to look upon Mayor Heilburn's aspirations with enthusiasm and in the end the Mayor was left off the ticket. Mr. Hart at once resented this treatment of his friend by leaving the Republican party and taking the curbstone for the Democratic ticket headed by Hon. Jas. B. McCreary. Wherever he went and he went all over Kentucky—he proclaimed his new found faith and not only talked with his mouth and hands but made some telling remarks with his pocket book—in organizing the Jewish vote for McCreary. How many votes he changed is not known but Gov. McCreary was elected by more than 33,000 majority, the largest Democratic majority in 40 years. After the inauguration one of his first officials acts was to appoint Mr. Hart a Colonel on his staff, an honor that he wore with so much dignity that Gov. Stanley lost no time in renewing Col. Hart's commission as soon as he went into office last year. Col. Hart's uniforms, one of which is shown in the picture at the head of this column, surpass in splendor any official regalia heretofore seen in the State. He received many requests from newly appointed Colonels on Gov. Stanley's staff for pointers on the subject of uniforms and some even asked if it would be possible to obtain one since his term had expired. Gov. Stanley's prompt action in retaining his services, put a stop to these efforts to deprive him of his wardrobe and Col. Hart is still in a class by himself as a Colonel worthy of the title conferred by two great governors. When Gov. McCreary visited Hopkinsville in 1913 accompanied by Senators James and Camden and the senatorial nominee, Senator Beckham, Col. Hart gave a dinner in honor of the statesmen, that is still referred to as one of the brilliant events in the history of Hopkinsville. It was attended by hundreds and no man went away hungry or thirsty.

It is needless to say that Col. Hart is now a staunch Democrat. He is more than that. He is a leader of great and increasing influence. Aside from his politics he is prominent in many other directions. He is an active member of the Masons, the Elks and Woodmen lodges. In Masonry he is a thirty-second degree member and also belongs to the Eastern Star order, the local chapter of which was named the Carrie Hart Chapter in honor of his wife, who was prominent in its organization.

Personally he is very popular and has friends in all the walks of life. One of his warm personal friends was Rev. M. A. Jenkins, who was pastor of the first Baptist Church in 1897 and 1898 and during Dr. Jenkins' recent visit to the city Col. Hart heard him preach many times in the meeting he held.

As an Elk he has for many years had charge of the distribution of Christmas presents to the poor and his charity and goodness of heart have endeared him to those whose hearts have been so often gladdened by his visits.

His family consists of one daughter and son. His daughter is the wife of Max Lowenthal a well-known wholesale merchant of New York house, who live much of the time with her parents. The son, George Hart, is in business in Evansville, and has a son three years old whom his grandfather loves next to his uniform. The Colonel says he intends to leave the boy his uniform when he dies.

KITTY LEAGUE BREAKS DOWN

Yesterday's Games Closed
The League For The Year.

OBITUARY.

Miss Kitty League, formerly one of the most popular belles in Western Kentucky, passed away Sunday. She had been ill for three or four weeks. Dr. Frank Bassett made a vain effort to prolong her life by an operation, but it was not successful. No tears survive her.

The story of Miss Kitty is a sad one. In the brightness of her youth she was courted by all the promising young towns in this part of the state. She died an old maid, deserted and unwept. Her demise caused a warm tear to flow from the eyes of those who picture in their memories the blithe young maiden she once was. Funeral services will be conducted today in President's office.

The standing of the league when it closed was:
